New Chairman Takes Over At Boynton Angels

The Boynton Angels announce the election of Chris Golden as Chairman

Westborough, MA, February 18, 2009: For Immediate Release

Boynton Angels announces that Chris Golden recently assumed the duties of Chairman of our Angel Investment Group, Worcester's only Angel investing organization. Mr. Golden is a founding member of the Boynton Angels and prior to assuming the role of Chairman he served as the Chairman of the Screening Committee for two years. Mr. Golden is a seasoned executive having led several industrial and technology companies in both domestic and international markets. He is also an active investor and serial entrepreneur. Mr. Golden serves on the boards of directors or advisors of several firms in the New England area and holds degrees in Economics (BA - Lafayette College) and Business Administration (MBA - Boston University).

Boynton Angels is an Angel Investment Group focused on investing in seed and expansion stage technology companies located within a two-hour radius of Worcester, Massachusetts. Boynton believes that Central Massachusetts provides rich opportunities for economic growth within its home grown high technology companies. On the other hand we believe that this market remains financially underserved.

Boynton targets its investments in the life sciences, energy, transportation, communications and software. The group holds a membership meeting each month (from September through June) where members review one or two pre-screened investment opportunities. We rely on our fellow members for expertise and due diligence, but each member makes an individual investment decision. We have a disciplined process for investment that we believe provides improved returns on our investments. For more information, visit www.boyntonangels.com
